

Jewish Studies Program

is pleased to present the first Allan Kerbel Annual Lecture in Jewish Studies by

Dr. Steven Katz,

Director of the Elie Wiesel Center for Judaic Studies at Boston University, on

The Uniqueness of the Holocaust

By equating the attempted annihilation of the Jews with other historical tragedies, such as the bombing of Hiroshima, the treatment of Native Americans, black slavery in America, or the Armenian Tragedy, we tend to view everything on the same level. This lecture will explore in what sense the Holocaust is a singular historical event.
